What motivates you to get out of bed in the morning?

I get up at around 5:55 to 6:05 AM almost everyday. The first thing I do is open the door to let one of our farm animal/pet rabbit out to the yard. Then I go to the stash of chicken feed and grab a handful of mixed seeds and cracked corn and give it to one rooster and two hens, another set of our farm animal/ pet we have. After those tasks, I go and check and inspect all the plants, tree seedlings, tress that we have at our small 100 square meter yard as much as I can, then I check all the potted indoor and outdoor plants. I breathe, taking in all the blessings. I am motivated to share this simple feeling of contentment, that I am somehow contributing to the efforts of preserving and mending our environment with this small space.

What were you like in high school?

I was a nerd of sorts. I get along with most of my classmates. The particular group or my squad are not the unpopular, and at the same time we are not the popular kids in school. I get along with bullies and their victims, yes, I am part of the problem and I admittedly contribute to the bullying of some of my classmates, to some extent, and I feel sorry right after. I hang out with geeks and nerds too, in fact I have a separate group of friends that are all geeks. I am somewhat a cross between mister friendly and bully instigator.
