Would you go to the future or back to the past if you had a time machine? Why?

That's a good question. If given a chance to go back to the future or back to the past I would pick the option of going to the future. The reason why I chose this is simply because I want to see as to what kind of person I will become. I'd like to see if I'm still with my parents and how much time I have left to spend with my father. It would be nice to get an idea as to what should I change or do now in order for me to have a better life in the future. In addition, I would like to visit the future to see if we finally discover the cure for Covid19. I guess it would be helpful to today's society because there's a lot of people suffering from the said virus. These are the reasons why I would definitely go visit the future if I have a time machine.

What song best describes your life?

The best song that describes me is So What by BTS. BTS is a Korean band artist from Seoul Korea and I know that their songs are written in Hangul or their own language but it has a deep meaning when translated to our dialect. The song describes how a person goes through a difficult time of trying their best but still gets a not so favorable feedback from others. It was written for people who have anxiety because of the trauma they've got from hearing poor responses from people. I guess this song describes me most because I went through a lot of trouble due to other people's poor judgement of me. However, at the end of it all I'm now able to say that I've outgrown it. I don't really think much of other people's opinion not because I don't care but because I now fully understand how life works. Basically, the context of the song is no matter how good you are to others, they will always have something to say so why bother.
