Do you consider yourself lucky?

I do consider myself lucky. Despite the crisis we are facing, I was surrounded by people who supported me and loved me. I was just about to graduate and suppose to get the board exam, I really thought that I have my figured out. I would apply for work , help provide for my family, put up a business and save, then suddenly the pandemic came, all my plans were lost and I was forced to stop all my goals but my family encouraged not to rush things and just take everything at my own pace and my own time. Also I have a home and I can eat 3 times or more a day and that's really a thing to be grateful for and I wouldn't ask for more.

Between your dad and mom, who are you closest to and what is the biggest lesson you've learned from him or her?

It would be my mom. My mom supported us most of the time, for education and our passion in life. Despite our struggles and hardships, she didn't let us feel that we need to limit ourselves in things that we love doing. The biggest lesson I've learned from her is do not settle for less, if you want something work hard for it, strive for it because no one will get it for you but yourself. Learn to be independent, stand at your own feet and you will be able to achieve great things in life and when the time comes , you will be contented that you've done your best in lifetime.
