If you had to choose between a work environment that was always in chaos versus one in which nothing ever changed, which would you choose?

If I had to choose between a work environment that was always in chaos versus one in which nothing ever changed, I would choose the work environment that was always in chaos. It is because this would create a room for me to challenge my abilities as an individual. I believe that challenges become our stepping stone to improve ourselves and to see how far we can outgrow our abilities. If we are exposed to diverse challenges in our work or even in our different aspects of our life, we will be pushing ourselves to learn in order to cope up with the circumstances we are in.

What would the name of your debut album be? Tell us why you chose this name.

If I would be given a chance to create and name an album, I would name it "Version 2". All of my songs will be about empowerment and redeeming one's self from failure decisions. I thought about this theme because I have been in so many rejections and have failed so many times in most of my endeavors. I know that there are a lot of people who can relate to this experience and I want to uplift everyone's spirit. I want everyone to know that we all have chances to redeem our selves from all the shortcomings we did. I want to encourage everyone to never stop trying, to never quit and to dream harder. I want to send the message to everyone that everyone has their own timelines and God has written the most beautiful story for everyone of us.
