Talk about one of your great qualities that others don't always appreciate.

One of the qualities I think that I possess which others don't always appreciate is my work ethics. I always made sure that I provide my best in doing my job or whatever tasks that is being given to me. I also believe that you should enjoy your work so that you can be productive. Also, a part of having a good work ethic is to be punctual. By being on time, you can do a lot of things. Making sure that you have good work ethics can lead to a productive and successful life.

What inspires you?

My family is the main reason that I am inspired to work. Being able to provide their needs makes me happy. Also, being able to learn new things everyday inspires me to do my job well. It is always satisfying to learn something new and to challenge yourself. Challenging yourself to do better also inspires me. There are tasks that requires you to do things outside of your comfort zone or to do things that your not familiar with, that in itself is a challenge which if you overcome it and provides you with a satisfying feeling of success.
