If you could be a teacher for a day, what would you teach and why?

Becoming a teacher for a day, I would like myself to teach my students about manners and respect. Since other lessons such as English, Math and Science can be learned from books. Manners can only be taught to someone by sharing their life experiences. For me, this would be the best lesson I could teach and share with everyone. Because, not only it teaches you how to go along with other people, this also helps you become a better person for yourself and for each and everyone around you.

Give us three items you cannot live without and tell us why.

The three items I could not live without would be my phone, a water bottle by my side, and my clothes. The first item that came into my mind was my phone, because all of the important documents that are useful for me were saved inside of it. Our phones also gives us access to apps where we can communicate with people miles away from us. It also connects us to the internet where we can learn about exciting news. The second item is my water bottle or a tumbler. As a person who sweats a lot after doing something, it is important for me to have something to drink from time to time to avoid dehydration. The third item is my clothes. Why? Who would want to walk around naked? Jokes aside, I am a person who gets uncomfortable if I don't wear proper clothes inside or outside my house. Although I sweat a lot, I easily get cold if I don't have my clothes on even on a hot summer day.
