

1.If anything was possible, what would your dream job be, and why?

If anything were possible, my dream job would be a Flight Attendant. Since we live near the airport, I can always hear the airplanes roaring sound during their departure and arrival. Then I would come running outside the house to wave or salute to say goodbye. I imagine that the people in the airplane can see me. And as a child, I wondered how far the aircraft can travel to different places. That is why ever since I was a child, I have had this picture in my mind that I am in an airplane, going to places I have never been, enjoying the view from above, especially the clouds, and traveling with different people. For me being able to work as a Flight attendant is a luxury and even though I was not able to become a Flight Attendant, I am still happy because I was able to travel by airplane.

2. Have you ever experienced a stressful situation in your past workplace (college if fresh graduate), what was it and how did you overcome it?

I've been working with a different company for almost five years and there was a time when I experienced a stressful situation in one of my workplaces. I consider it a stressful situation because it was almost end of my shift and I am working on my daily reports then one of my workmates was also in a hurry to ask a favor to create a temporary plate number because his client lost it and since I am the only one who can do it for him. This workmate was someone I am not comfortable with because of how he approaches me ever since I started working at this company. What I did was, I approached our manager and asked politely if I could finish the report the next day before noon so I could work on my workmate's requests, good thing my manager agree so I was able to grant my workmates favor.

3. In your previous position, what task did you find most challenging and why? What task did you enjoy most and why?

Out of all my previous positions, working in an IT company as a Customer Care Specialist is the most challenging one. Because most of the tasks were troubleshooting customer emails and websites. It's challenging for me because aside from being a newbie, I need to use a lot of tools to identify the cause of the problem. You also need to make sure that you were able to understand the errors that the customer encountered and to do that you really need to replicate. The task I enjoyed the most was when I was working as a Registration Clerk. Because I was assigned to file the insurance of our customers in a vault alphabetically and make sure to have a master file which I was able to do by using Excel. One of the tasks as well must fill out and print the documents needed to register the motorcycles of our customers.

4. How would your previous managers/coworkers describe you?

My previous managers or coworkers describe me as the most punctual because I arrive in the office earlier than expected most of the time. I think it was already a habit for me to set an alarm clock two or two and a half hours before my shift starts to make sure that I still have time to do the things that I needed before leaving home. It really started when I was a kid because my parents would wake me up around 5:00 AM to prepare for school. They make sure that I take a bath before having my breakfast first thing in the morning. After having my breakfast, my mother would make sure that I looked tidy, especially with my uniform. She will also check my belongings in my backpack if I have all my books, pencils, and especially my pocket food. That is where I get used to waking up early in the morning.

5. What personal or professional accomplishments are you most proud of?

The professional accomplishment that I am most proud of is graduating from college. It was something that most people can be proud of because it takes a lot of patience, courage, and determination to survive the challenges that you would encounter before you reached the finish line of your chosen course. It is where I was able to realize and experience a lot of things in life especially when it comes to the point where you will be tested by temptations, times when you will learn to choose the people you surround yourself with, and times when you really need to think outside the box to survive school while facing a lot of issues at home. It was also during my college days when I was able to enjoy myself and save money when I decided to join the scholarship for Dance Troupe. Aside from the fact that it helps with my tuition fees, it also helps me lessen my stress while studying.
