

1. If anything was possible, what would your dream job be, and why?

I always wanted to become a lawyer. This is still possible but it's not as easy as I wanted it to be. This dream of mine sparked when I was still in my high school years when my father was killed by our ungrateful neighbor and the killer is still living freely in the mountainous area of Murcia. The reality of the justice system and the investigation system in our country is not well established and there are a lot of laws and policies that need revision. In our society, if you do not have enough money to make the police move then having justice in this crime is not easy and the worst part is that it will be covered by other unresolved trials. I have totally moved on from my personal experience and I am moving forward and just want to help other people claiming justice that they deserve.

2. Have you ever experienced a stressful situation in your past workplace (college if fresh graduate), what was it and how did you overcome it?

I graduated last June 2023, and I had my internship at Negros Occidental High School and Colegio San-Agustin Bacolod. The most stressful situation in my stay there was not the work itself, I enjoy teaching students and connecting with them, but the laziness of the teachers and students makes me stressed out. I know that it's not the same every day, but I have observed that most of the teachers prefer to do personal errands during work hours and have less time to prepare for the next class, I am not generalizing the situation, but I learned from it. I have overcome this situation by setting standards for myself and visualizing myself doing my best every day if I'm given a chance to be in that position or in any other position. I know that I can't do much with stressful situations anywhere and it's part of living, but I believe that setting myself and goals together can totally change my views and my feeling towards any situation.

3. In your previous position, what task did you find most challenging and why? What task did you enjoy most and why?

The challenge that I encounter every day is how can I retain the knowledge that I impart to every learner. I have come to realize that not everyone is interested in learning, and everyone has a different learning style. I must create an effective strategy to keep the information in every student's mind. I find it challenging since I am talking about 50 students and not just an individual. I enjoy collaborating with my classmates in brainstorming effective ideas that we can use in our classes. I enjoy creating fun activities for every class that I handle, and I make sure that it's not just all about heavy information, but I want them to enjoy as they learn. So, it's like hitting two birds using one stone. I feel a different level of satisfaction if I can reach the standards that I set for myself every time I am doing any task.

4. How would your previous managers/coworkers describe you?

I think they would describe me as a passionate, proactive, and hard-working student. Mainly because I always put myself in the situation and I put time and effort into what I do. Every time I do something I always think of the best result that can help someone. Maybe they might also say that I am proactive in a positive way, but I do that because I always want the best outcome with what I do. If I think of the other way that I can suggest and I know that it can be effective and useful for everyone, I suggest it. I also work hard because I always want to have the best result. I wanted to be someone who could help them not just in that moment but someone who could imprint something in their lives. I wanted them to remember me when they did the things I taught them.

5. What personal or professional accomplishments are you most proud of?

There are a lot of small wins in my life. I had a terrible past that I was able to conquer. I started working at the age of 18 and I never thought of finishing college. I am very proud that I was able to make money for myself and my family at a very young age. I am also proud that I was able to push myself to continue with my studies even though everything around me is a struggle. I was very lucky enough to have great support from my family and financial assistance from the government. I was struggling but my goals were bigger than my struggles. I was happy to graduate at 30 and get my license as a professional teacher in the same year. I am very proud of myself for achieving those accomplishments and I am also very happy to share it with my family. I cannot do this alone, it's always with them and it's always Him.
