

1. If anything was possible, what would your dream job be, and why?

If given the opportunity to pursue any dream, my choice would undoubtedly be to become a doctor specializing in nutrition and beauty. Throughout my life, I've come to realize the profound impact that peace of mind and optimal health can have on one's overall well-being. Far too often, problems stem from financial strain and deteriorating health. By embodying the role of a doctor, particularly one with expertise in nutrition, I envision a multifaceted solution to these pervasive issues. Firstly, the inherent prestige and financial stability associated with the medical profession would alleviate concerns about monetary struggles. Moreover, as a doctor, I would possess a wealth of knowledge concerning health and wellness, enabling me to positively impact countless lives. By specializing in nutrition and beauty, I could offer tailored guidance and interventions to promote not only physical health but also enhance individuals' confidence and self-esteem. Through this holistic approach, I aspire to contribute meaningfully to society by fostering happier, healthier, and more fulfilled lives.

2. Have you ever experienced a stressful situation in your past workplace (college if fresh graduate), what was it and how did you overcome it?

In my previous workplace, I was fortunate not to encounter any notably stressful situations. I understand that stress can manifest in various forms and intensities for different individuals. In my case, the stress is very minimal and instead of focusing on specific stressful incidents, I prefer to address the issue by focusing on how to solve the problem at hand. This involves maintaining open communication with both my colleagues and supervisors, and actively seeking and accepting feedback.

Since I only focus on my current tasks, I manage my time accordingly. I get well along with my workmates and maintain a positive vibe. By fostering positive relationships with my coworkers and cultivating a supportive work environment, I contributed to a harmonious atmosphere that minimized stressors. Furthermore, I continuously sought opportunities to enhance my skills, enabling me to confidently tackle any emerging challenges. While I may not have faced significant stressors in the past, I recognize the importance of resilience and adaptability in overcoming potential obstacles in the workplace.

3. In your previous position, what task did you find most challenging and why? What task did you enjoy most and why?

In my previous position, I didn't find any task particularly challenging, primarily due to several factors that contributed to a smooth workflow. Firstly, I had the autonomy to work at my own pace, which significantly eased any potential stressors. My boss trusted my work ethic and productivity, allowing me the flexibility to manage my time effectively without feeling rushed or overwhelmed. Additionally, I benefited from the guidance of a seasoned employee who had been with the company for some time before my arrival. His mentorship provided invaluable insights and shortcuts that streamlined my workflow, making tasks feel more manageable.

Moreover, some of the tasks I undertook were born from my own ideas, which inherently made them easier to execute. Having ownership over these projects fueled my motivation and creativity, enabling me to approach them with enthusiasm and confidence. Additionally, some of my tasks were simple labor such as packing orders, refilling inventory and managing the store.

The task that I enjoyed was training new hires. I was the one responsible for teaching new employees how to do their tasks. It fostered a sense of respect and camaraderie coming from the new hires. Witnessing them grow and become proficient in their tasks due to my guidance was rewarding.

4. How would your previous managers/coworkers describe you?

Most of my colleagues would aptly describe me as an intelligent individual for several compelling reasons. Firstly, they admire my ability to solve mathematical problems that others may struggle with. I consistently demonstrate a knack for understanding and manipulating mathematical concepts.

Moreover, they would highlight my proficiency in English, particularly evident in the contents I generate for our website and in our Facebook page. I convey the information in an articulate manner, ensuring that the message is effectively communicated to the intended audience. This not only enhances the professionalism of our online presence but facilitates better understanding among our followers.

Additionally, my colleagues would recognize my capability to tackle tasks that are inherently intricate and challenging.

Lastly, they would commend my record of delivering tasks with minimal to no mistakes. Due to my meticulous attention to details, I consistently produce high-quality work that meets or exceeds their expectations, earning their trust and confidence in my abilities.

5. What personal or professional accomplishments are you most proud of?

One of my fulfilling professional accomplishments involves significantly contributing to the exponential growth of my previous company. Notably, I spearheaded the establishment of our company's presence on Facebook, a move that proved instrumental in driving remarkable sales growth. From humble beginnings in a small room with just one company car, we've achieved remarkable milestones over the past five years. This includes the acquisition of a physical store with our own property, expansion of our vehicle fleet to encompass six cars and development of a comprehensive website. Central to our success has been the creation of a dynamic Facebook page and the implementation of an efficient delivery system. Additionally, our commitment to meeting consumer demands led to the expansion of our inventory, and the investment of a large freezing storage facility. While there are undoubtedly more achievements I may not recall at this moment, this journey stands as a testament to our collective efforts and strategic foresight that have propelled the company forward.
