

1. If anything was possible, what would your dream job be, and why?

- If anything was possible, my dream job would be like a manager or in a Cruise ship. I like going places and I guess a cruise ship would be a dream workplace. I like to manage and organize things at their finest. Cruise ship opportunities are surely going places around the world, and that idea somehow excites me and motivates me to do even greater things in life.

2. Have you ever experienced a stressful situation in your past workplace (college if fresh graduate), what was it and how did you overcome it?

- I had experienced a stressful situation in my past workplace like losing my internet connection and my online class with my student got disconnected. The mother of the kid then was a little angry on chat that this kind of issue occurs many times. What I did was, just did remain calm and reported it to our support and reassured the parents to have their extended class so that they can get what they are paying for. All went well, at a later time.

3. In your previous position, what task did you find most challenging and why? What task did you enjoy most and why?

- The most challenging was taking calls with tenants who couldn't even provide proof of their payments and those who couldn't fulfill their promise to pay schedules, yet they were the ones who were so angry, impulsive on call. I enjoyed working most when clearing the list of already paid tenants on my board. It gives the feeling of satisfaction and achievement.

4. How would your past colleagues or managers describe your work ethic?

- They described me as reliable and trustworthy. If it's work, I work with integrity. I respect the company's policy and make my best effort for the contribution of success of the company.

5. What personal or professional accomplishments are you most proud of?

- My professional accomplishment would be experiencing working alone with a client without a team. I've never imagined I could do such a thing, but I appreciate the efforts of my manager who has seen the potential in me. For personal, probably I used to live away from home for more than a year and I learned many practical things in life without depending to my parents.
