

1. If anything was possible, what would your dream job be, and why?

My dream job was to be an IT Professional. Back when I was in high school, I was amazed with the innovative technology, especially computers. When my grandmother bought a computer for us to use for our studies, I found the opportunity to explore the world of technology. I even enrolled myself in a computer literacy program to acquire more knowledge and skills about computers. It is funny though that along the way while exploring, I found out about Oneal De Guzman, he was a hacker who hacked pentagon with the lovebug virus, and it came across my mind that someday I want to be a hacker. Yes! I want to crack codes like him. But of course, I would not do that in real life. I just want to know about codes, it is more about I'm curious with how unique codes work. To make it simple, I just want to know how powerful technology is in the world.

2. Have you ever experienced a stressful situation in your past workplace (college if fresh graduate), what was it and how did you overcome it?

Stress is inevitable. Everyone is experiencing stress once in their life and for me when I was still working in my previous job, I am experiencing stress everyday. As a Human Resource Personnel and assigned to serve disciplinary actions and conduct administrative hearings, it is very stressful to face different types of individuals personality. There are employees who will abide the rules but there are also some employees who are questioning the rules which is in the first place those are just simple rules that are easy to understand and comply. They are making things complicated, they wanted to justify that they are not violating the rules which is clearly that they have violated anyway. So, as the one who is imposing the rules, I must deal with them by making a counter argument, for them to understand that they have committed violations. I have overcome the stress that I have gone through by leaving the stress in the office after office hours. I did not let the stress consume me. Before I go home, I go to my favorite place, which is at capitol lagoon to release my stress.

3. In your previous position, what task did you find most challenging and why? What task did you enjoy most and why?

As an Audit Account Specialist from my latest employer, the task that I find more challenging is when I do audit the Statement of Accounts of the clients of every branch, because there is no specific format for all the branches to follow in creating Statement of Account. Sometimes, it is hard to identify which is which because they were not able to input the particulars correctly. Also, if I have a question regarding with their transactions, it is hard to communicate with them since almost of the branches are located in Cebu City which their dialect is different from mine.

The task that I enjoyed back when I was an Audit Account Specialist was when I did a surprise branch visit. I was able to enjoy different places, especially areas that I had not yet visited before. Aside from that, the company provided me with an allowance which is bigger than my salary, my accommodation and travel expenses were shouldered by the company as well.

4. How would your past colleagues or managers describe your work ethic?

I would say that my previous colleagues often describe me as a happy and approachable person. I am a person who they can easily be friends with. During avail time, I could throw jokes with them but, they are also aware when it comes to work, I am a very serious person. I don't like being disturbed with a nonsense topic while I am working. My friend told me one time that way back when we were still in the same company, she is hesitant to talk to me because I might ignore her since she is fully aware that I don't want to be disturbed.

5. What personal or professional accomplishments are you most proud of?

In personal accomplishment, I am proud that I was able to finish my studies despite the difficulties and hindrances that I have encountered. I am proud to say that I completed my bachelor's degree by myself. I've been a working student to finance my studies and also to support my child's needs. It is hard but it is all worth it.

I guess the professional accomplishment I am most proud of is when I worked in a different company with a different professional position. I've been an HR Personnel and Audit Account Specialist, which I thought at first that I couldn't do but I did. Also, I was able to pass the Civil Service Examination – Professional level at first take. I am just so proud of myself for those accomplishments.
