

1. If anything was possible, what would your dream job be, and why?

If anything was possible, my dream job would be to become a banker, because ever since I was young, I have always found numbers to be something interesting as they would give you a concrete idea on how to decide. Moreover, I had always dreamed of working in a bank and have wondered how things work inside a bank. I have always wanted to become more knowledgeable in the banking industry as well as handling finances in general. This is also one of the main reasons why I picked my course in management accounting, as it would give me an overview of how finance works as well as a little bit of a glimpse of the banking industry. Moreover, I also desire to become a branch manager of a bank, as that is one of the top positions that a person who works in a bank can have in the banking industry.

2. Have you ever experienced a stressful situation in your past workplace (college if fresh graduate), what was it and how did you overcome it?

I have experienced a great number of stressful situations in my life in general but the most stressful situation that I experienced in college was when our research paper and feasibility study was given to us at the same time during my 3rd year in the university. We struggled with it as it demanded a huge amount of time from our day to day as well as juggling the tasks we needed to accomplish. However, we keep moving forward with the task and maximize a checklist for us to know the steps we need to make and for us to minimize the feeling of being overwhelmed. We stayed focused on our goal which was to graduate from the university as well as remembered our reasons for wanting to finish school. Personally, I keep my family in mind and used them as a motivation for me to keep moving forward despite the circumstances as well as used it to develop the discipline to do what needs to be done.

3. In your previous position, what task did you find most challenging and why? What task did you enjoy most and why?

In my previous work experience at Securities and Exchange Commission, the task that I found most challenging was the monitoring of corporations since it was somewhat of a lengthy process. Moreover, this task would also require a great deal of accuracy on the part of the auditor as we were dealing with numbers. Furthermore, this task would also include specific rules and exceptions when it comes to determining the amount that the corporation needs to pay. On the other hand, the task that I enjoyed the most was when we were assigned to help with the clients who desire to register and form a corporation. I enjoyed this task as it involves interacting with a few clients as well as helping them with their needs. I also enjoyed the task which required us to accompany an employee of SEC to hold a seminar that pertains to how the SEC functions and what it does for its citizens.

4. How would your past colleagues or managers describe your work ethic?

If I spoke on their behalf, they would say I was an efficient and resourceful worker as the task they assigned me needed minimal supervision and high accuracy. Moreover, they would also say that I am a diligent worker, being able to submit the requirements on time as well as having no complaints as to the task that was assigned to me. Furthermore, they would also describe me as someone who is pleasant to have on the workplace as they had faced no problems regarding how I conduct myself in the workplace as well as the work being assigned to me during my stay at Securities and Exchange Commission Bacolod branch. Additionally, my co-worker in my freelance work experience as a Virtual Assistant had no problems in regard to my compliance with the work, he assigned to me as I was able to meet my daily tasks and submit the important data that he needed.

5. What personal or professional accomplishments are you most proud of?

Personally, I am quite proud with the fact that I was able to graduate from my bachelor's degree despite the challenges I faced in life as graduating from college is quite a big feat here in the Philippines since one of the biggest reasons why most people here were not able to graduate is due to the problems they are facing in life. Moreover, I am quite proud about the fact that I was able to graduate from college while working as a part-time freelance Virtual Assistant as I had to balance my school life with my work life and as I shared I while a go it was quite difficult since we had our research paper. There were a lot of times that I thought about giving up my part-time job, but I couldn't as I saw the need of my family and had to carry on with it. But nevertheless, I was able to overcome all the pressure and problems with time management.
